COLLECTING LEADS AT YOUR STAND

The Catcher application enables you to collect the contact information of your fair contacts and survey their needs or to collect opinions and feedback. In addition, you can help them remember their visit to your fair stand by sending an automatic after-marketing message. The message is also an easy way of introducing your other network content to your stand visitors, and you can also attach an offer to the message if you want. After the fair, all the information collected is already in electronic format, which saves you time and trouble. The visual image of all the Catcher applications will be tailored according to the customer's wishes. At trade fairs, you can use the Catcher Pro version to read the contact information directly on the fair visitors' badges.

You can boost the after-marketing of trade fairs by registering your stand visitors by means of Procode's modern bar code and mobile technologies. Other alternatives include scanner solutions and the ContactMate mobile solution, which works on phones and tablets and generates a real-time file of the visitors to your stand. Instead of collecting tickets and business cards, you can concentrate on serving your customers. You can contact your customers without delay, even during the event, when things are still fresh in mind.
